THE INAUGURAL WELLBEING RESEARCH & POLICY CONFERENCE 2022

6-8 JULY
UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD
CALL FOR PAPERS

The Wellbeing Research & Policy Conference aims to bring together the most rigorous academic research on the topic of wellbeing, with an applied focus on policy and interventions.

It will offer an opportunity for participants to engage in vibrant exchanges between academics and policymakers from around the world, each with their own experience and insights on improving wellbeing.

With academic keynotes from:
Profs Lord Richard Layard (LSE), Andrew Oswald (University of Warwick), Carol Graham (Brookings Institution), Claire Haworth (University of Bristol), John Helliwell (UBC), Cassie Mogilner Holmes (UCLA), Jeffrey Sachs (Columbia University), and more.

We invite proposals for 20-minute papers on any of our five core themes:

- Fundamental issues in wellbeing measurement
- Economics of wellbeing
- Wellbeing policy and interventions
- Wellbeing in education
- The future of work and wellbeing

We are pleased to be able to cover all expenses for those selected to present, and will award a £2000 cash prize for the best paper presented.

Please submit papers or extended abstracts to: wellbeing@hmc.ox.ac.uk.

Deadline for submissions:

30 January 2022.

Papers will be selected by academic committee by 28 February 2022.
